YOUR HAT
May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busy at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

HAMLINS WIZARD OIL

No time should be lost, because lung trouble may easily develop into pneumonia or consumption.

Hamlins Wizard Oil, applied to the chest, relieves the pain and inflammation, loosens up the cough and soon cures the disease.

"My little girl," writes Rich. W. Thornton of Ouray, Colo., "suffered more or less with a cold on the lungs since her birth, and finally the trouble became serious. No remedies gave relief, until we tried Hamlins Wizard Oil, one bottle of which permanently cured her." Price 50c and $1.00.

Mysterious Death.

An unknown man loaded down with money and believed to have come from Hagerstown, Md., fell from the west-bound flyer on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad just west of California, Ky., Saturday night and was killed. The case has some very mysterious phases to it. When the body was taken to Cincinnati and searched the coroner was amazed to find $31,628 in bills and coin in the clothing.

The body is that of a man about 30 years old, 6 feet 2 inches in height, weight 180 pounds, dark brown hair and smooth face. He lived but a short time after falling from the train, his head having come in contact with a large bowlder alongside the track.

The best clue to the identity of the dead man is found in the hat, a black alpaca, that he wore. It bears the name of Miller & Weinberg, Hagerstown, Md., is new and a No. 7.

The man had on two pairs of trousers, the top pair being of striped gray goods. The coat and vest were of dark green goods, with a fine white stripe. The other pair of pants were dark, with a light hair stripe running through the goods. Over a woolen shirt the unknown had two striped white shirts. The only papers found in the dead man's pockets was a cash fare slip showing a receipt for a fare of $3.80 taken from book 4173, ticket No. 67.

Conductor Fish, of the train from which the stranger fell from Huntington to Cincinnati, said that the man was on the train when he took charge of it. He collected the cash fare of $3.80 and asked the man where he was going. The unknown said he was going to New York. Fish told him he was on the wrong train, as it was going to Cincinnati. The stranger then said he would go to Cincinnati. That is the last Fish remembers of him.

Americans Break a Roulette Bank

A great stir has been caused in Lisbon gaming circles by three Americans, who have carried off with them $16,000. They arrived in a yacht there last week, and frequented the tables at the Lisbon Club. Three nights in succession they broke the roulette bank amid intense excitement, and then disappeared as mysteriously as they arrived. The names of the men are not known, but they have been identified as the same party who last summer broke two nights in succession the roulette bank in the Cascaes Club, winning about £7,000. So nervous of the mysterious players have the two clubs become that they have published a description of them in the hope that inquiry may be made as to their identity and at the same time have given orders to the staffs prohibiting their entrance to the clubs in future.

Saloonkeeper Killed.

J. F. Montague, a well-known resident of Cedar Grove, near Charleston, W. Va., and proprietor of a saloon and restaurant at that place, was shot and killed by Harvey Elswick, who entered Montague's place of business Saturday night and without a word of warning opened fire on Montague. He fired three shots, and was making his escape when he was knocked down by Claude Montague, a brother of the murdered man, who, after disarming Elswick, let him go, not knowing that his brother was fatally wounded. A special train from Charleston took a physician and officers to the scene of the shooting, but Montague died in about thirty minutes. Elswick, who is a coal miner at Monarch, was captured near his home and lodged in the Kanawha county jail. He was under the influence of liquor at the time of the shooting. There was an old grudge between the men.

Watchman Murdered.

Somebody murdered John Arthurs, a watchman, on one of Spearin & Preston's pile drivers off Little West Twelfth street, New York, yesterday morning. The police are unable to assign any motive for the crime, and regard it as one of the most mysterious with which they have dealt in a long time. An empty whisky bottle and a bottle half full of whisky were found in the room. There also were a large number of cigarette stumps. Arthurs was a member of the crew week days and watchman on Sundays. He slept on the crew and had his meals brought to him. Yesterday at noon, James Somerville, a fourteen-year-old boy, whose father is a friend of Arthurs, took his breakfast out to him in a rowboat. He found Arthurs lying dead with his head cut open. A bloody axe lay near him.

Shot Off Deacon's Head.

To impress Samuel Smith, a fellow deacon in the Owensboro, Ky., Baptist Church, with his argument that John D. Rockefeller will have a harder time passing through the portals of heaven than a camel would have passing through the eye of a needle, Robert Robertson blew off Smith's head with a shotgun. A meeting of the deacons was in progress in the house of worship. Someone mentioned Mr. Rockefeller, and Mr. Robertson insisted that the man of countless millions had no chance for salvation. Hot words were exchanged. Robertson told Smith to wait until he returned from home. When he came back he fired the contents of shotgun into Smith. Robertson is under arrest.

The Kind of The World of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all his usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They cured me of General Debility, Rheumatism, Headache, Dizziness, and Weakness or bodily decline. Price 10c. Guaranteed by E. S. Leadbetter & Sons' drug store."

Threw Vitriol at Husband.

Mrs. Jennie Cosgrove, of Warrensburg, N. Y., is locked up at police headquarters on an assault charge of seriously burning her husband with vitriol. She will be arraigned before Police Justice William J. Delany this morning. The victim is James D. Cosgrove, 40 years of age, salesman for the dressed-beef concern of Swift & Company. He is in a serious condition. Mrs. Cosgrove registered at the Commercial Hotel early Saturday evening. The couple have not lived together for over two years. Yesterday morning she sent word to Cosgrove that she desired a conference with him, and also wished to see their nine-year-old daughter. Cosgrove, accompanied by the child, went to the hotel. He left the young daughter in the office and was shown to his wife's room. As soon as he entered the room his wife broke a bottle of vitriol over his head and shoulders. Cosgrove ran from the room and received prompt medical attention. Mrs. Cosgrove was arrested.

Startling But True.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have ward off it by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia." W. D. WILCOX, Logan, New York. Sold by Gibson & Timberman and W. F. Creighton & Co.
